Learn how to make clear slime!

Clear slime is so much fun and when you add loom bands or sprinkles like we did, its a whole new and fun slime experience. This slime recipe can also be combined with Rainbow Slime (clear glue) to get even more creative with your slime play time.

CLEAR SLIME INGREDIENTS

Clear Glue (in a Gallon if possible to give you plenty to work with)

Liquid Starch

Nonpareils : After you have your clear glue, you may want to add things to it! I recommend nonpareils, which are so fun to watch melt in your slime. It will alter the color of your slime from clear to a muddy color after you are done playing however.

Other ideas to add to your clear slime are rubber bands, confetti

HOW TO MAKE CLEAR SLIME

- If you are used to making slime in general, this is pretty easy for you but when it comes to clear glue, it typically needs double the amount of starch to cling together. Clear glue is VERY STICKY!!
- Pour in about a cup of glue and then start to add starch. Overall you may need as much as a cup, but start with 1/4th cup and slowly add more as you need it. This is much more than white glue slime as it takes longer to bond together.
- Knead until the glue and starch start to form a more solid slime. You will know that its the perfect amount when you can peel it off your hands. Your kneading may take up wards of 5 minutes before the slime forms properly.

- Ready to add sprinkles?
- To make rainbow explosion slime with your clear slime, let your slime spread out on a nonstick surface like vinyl or a glass plate.
- Sprinkle nonpariels (balls of colored sprinkles) on your slime and let sit for about 20 seconds.
- Gather both sides of slime and spread the sprinkles out, which will form rainbows.
